Scotch National Hero. One hundred years ago the celebrated colossal statute of Sir William Wallace was formally dedicated by the earl of Buchan, in connection with the celebration of the five hundredth anniversary of the battle of Bannockburn. Sir William Wallace is known as the national hero of Scotland, and the stories of his courage, patriotism and devetion are familiar to all the children of that land. As the leader of a band of patriotic followers, he fought for years to deliver Scotland from English rule. When victory seemed about to crown his efforts he was defeated and captured through treachery, August 5, 1305, and sent a prisoner to London. There he was tried for high treason. On the same day that he was convicted he was executed and his body quartered.

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy, retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse, but you must see that it bears the signature of Chas, H. Fletcher.
